What Is Community Education?

We offer short-term classes that are not-for college credit. The program is self-supporting, receives no funds from Saddleback College or the State of California, and is separate from the academic offerings of the College.

College credit is not offered for any Community Education class, and the information presented may not reflect the opinion of Saddleback College.

Students who want to pursue a personal goal or educational degree for credit should consult the current Saddleback College credit course offerings at www.saddleback.edu.

Summer's Cool @ College For Kids

Join hundreds of children this summer at Saddleback College For Kids! This unique program was developed to allow children ages 7 - 14 the chance to experience real college life. Children will have the opportunity to develop their own individualized class schedules from a wide range of offerings. Classes include art, writing, reading, sports, theatre, foreign language, math, computers, science, and study skills. All classes are offered in two-week blocks, Monday through Thursday.

In addition to the College For Kids Program, Saddleback College will be celebrating its 32nd season of swim lessons for children. Lessons are available in Parent & Me (3-36 months); Tiny Tot (3-4 years); Beginners, Advanced Beginners, Intermediate and Competitive Swim (5 years and older); and a variety of specialized programs, including Beginning Springboard Diving, Personalized Springboard Diving, and Junior Lifeguard Conditioning. Classes are available on weekdays and weekends.

Accredited by the Accrediting Commission of Community and Junior Colleges, of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.
