Dr. Sholeh Alizadeh began working at Saddleback College in 1997 and became in charge of the Re-Entry Center in 1999. Her research studies include emphasis in the Sociology of the Family and Marital Conflict. Her work experience includes teaching ESL and Sociology courses for almost 10 years; counseling at Los Angeles Gateways Hospital & Mental Health Center for 3 years; advising, teaching workshops, leading support groups, coordinating conferences, and granting scholarships at Saddleback College since 1999. In addition Sholeh has been a member of the Crisis Intervention and Team (CIT) at Saddleback College, assisting students experiencing psychological emergencies and in need of immediate help.

Sholeh enjoys working with Saddleback College students and local community members as a bi-lingual and bi-cultural (English & Farsi) Re-Entry Specialist sensitive to the diverse need of the student population. She has valued her time working with community college students and loves to be a part of Saddleback College Student Services.
