COURSE DESCRIPTION
The goals of Anthropology for the last century have been to describe the societies and cultures of the world and to compare their differences and similarities.
This study of Cultural Anthropology will introduce the student to the cultural aspect of man’s behavior by examining the common characteristics as well as the unique differences of various cultures such as their social organization, religion, family structure, and personality. By looking at other cultures we can see ourselves more clearly (Kluckhohn 1944).

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of human cultural diversity.
2. Discuss the benefits and limitations of the various methodologies used by cultural anthropologists, especially fieldwork and participant-observation.
3. Explain the importance of cultural relativism in the analysis of global diversity, and discuss how this perspective differs from ethnocentrism.
4. Define the concept of culture, and differentiate between culture and individual perspectives of the world.
5. Demonstrate an understanding of holism, and the interrelationship between different aspects of a culture.
6. Identify and outline the anthropological framework of kinship, political, social, economic, and religious systems in a global context.
7. Critically analyze the process of globalization and its effects upon cultures around the world.
8. Articulate an anthropological perspective on current issues and concerns in the field of cultural anthropology.
