Possible hypotheses for fifth finger lab

You must choose one of these:

1. The combined length of male fifth fingers is significantly greater than the combined length of female fifth fingers (Note: “combined” means add the length of the right and left for each subject)
2. Mean length of the right fifth finger is significantly different from mean length of the left fifth finger.