Change of Status Information and Process

DISCLAIMER: It is recommended that individuals seeking to obtain a change of status consult with a qualified immigration attorney. The International Student Program at Saddleback College is able to assist eligible visitors with the change of status application procedure by providing an acceptance letter, and an I-20. ISO will provide interested parties with information concerning the pros and cons of doing a change of status vs consular processing – it is up to the interested party to determine if filing a change of status is in their best interest, and that individual assumes all liability associated with any decision made. Due to the fluid nature of governmental interpretation, applicants must understand that US Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) reserves the right to change their interpretation of immigration regulations or eligibility requirements for benefits at any time. This information is provided for those interested in changing their current non-immigrant status to the F-1/student visa. The US Department of Homeland Security is the office that reviews and approves a change of status request. Change of status is not guaranteed.

CHANGE OF STATUS WITHIN THE US THROUGH FORMAL APPLICATION TO US CIS:

Currently, change of status applications are seeing lengthy processing times. This category of change of status requests is heavily scrutinized. It is therefore not recommended that a change of status be filed from B1/B2 to F1 unless you had a “prospective student” notation listed in your tourist visa and have consulted with an experienced immigration attorney.

Students changing from a B to an F cannot study while the change of status is pending. You must also be able to remain in the US while the change of status is pending.

In general, it is recommended that you return home to apply for a student visa, however, if you decide to file a change of status request, you will need to gather the following:
