Welcome to the 2013-2014 Academic Year!

I am excited to welcome and introduce our new faculty, staff, and managers to Saddleback College. The following pages provide more background on our new hires and I am sure you will agree that they are all very impressive, with skills and experience that will service our students and college well.

In-Service Week provides a wonderful introduction to our college, with many opportunities to engage in roundtable discussions and idea exchanges, and learn about available resources for faculty and students. With so much of our work focused on the recommendations of the Student Success Task force, I look forward to engaging in discussions on how we can increase completion rates, work to close the achievement gap, and incentivize successful student behaviors, among other topics.

I have been president of Saddleback College now for more than five years. When I look back at my time here, I truly think we are in a prime era not only for higher education, but for community colleges and Saddleback College in particular. After making it through historically low funding levels for all community colleges while maintaining our high quality programs and services for students, our economy is reviving and we are implementing historic reforms following Governor Brown’s signing of the Student Success Act of 2012, which seeks to improve graduation and transfer rates for California Community College students.

Indeed, it is a great time to be a part of the Saddleback family. Our faculty, staff, and management team have done a lot of impressive work over the past year and I look forward to updating you on training and development for new faculty, our High School Partnership Plan, and increasing external resources through the Saddleback College Foundation, among other initiatives. I also look forward to more collaboration over the coming year in our strategic planning, enrollment management efforts, and further development of our Career Technical Education and Economic and Workforce Development programs.

I wish you all the very best for a wonderful academic year!

Sincerely,
Tod A. Burnett, Ed.D.

SCOTT FREDRICKSON
Business/Entrepreneurship Instructor

Education:
Ph.D. Music Business Administration, University of Northern Colorado, Greeley, CO
M.A. Business Administration, Pepperdine University, Malibu CA
B.A. Music Education, California State University Fullerton, CA

Experience:
Dr. Fredrickson has a combination of professional, entrepreneurial, and academic experience. His administration and teaching experience includes over thirty years in higher education. For the past six years, he has been a Professor on Entrepreneurship and Marketing at Alaska Pacific University in Anchorage, Alaska, where he has taught synchronous online, hybrid, and in-class graduate courses in Entrepreneurship, eCommerce, and the Business of Entrepreneurship course, as well as several online and in-class undergraduate courses. He has held prior teaching positions at Loyola University in New Orleans, Louisiana; University of Massachusetts Lowell; Elizabeth City State University in North Carolina; and Lebanon Valley College in Annville, Pennsylvania.

For the past 25 years, Scott has run Scott Music Publications. His catalog specializes in vocal jazz and contains seventy-five compositions, five recordings, and two books. He has also developed the only company in the world producing high-end laser-cut jigsaw puzzles from a variety of metals. The innovative puzzles are designed in CAD and use the latest technology in metal fabrication.

Awards:

CARRIE GOULDING
English Composition Instructor

Education:
J.D., Law, Chapman University, School of Law, Orange, CA
M.A. English Literature, Chapman University, Orange, CA
B.A. Humanities, Brigham Young University, Provo, UT

Experience:
Ms. Goulding has over six years of experience teaching developmental and college level writing, including assignments at Orange Coast College, Santa Ana College, Chapman University, and Irvine Valley College (IVC). She has also taught legal writing at Trinity School of Law. Most recently, Carrie’s teaching has focused on improving the success of basic skills students, and at IVC she has assisted in developing and piloting an accelerated, basic skills writing course that prepares students for college writing in one semester. Carrie has presented the principles of acceleration and the results of this pilot course at the 2013 National On Course Conference, the January 2013 South Orange County Community College Student Success Summit, and at a 3CSN Introduction to Acceleration Workshop at Cuyamaca College. Carrie has also presented at Irvine Valley College on strategies to address students’ affective needs, teaching grammar within the context of the writing process, and the principles of an effective first assignment. Before returning to teaching, Carrie practiced law for two years.

Outside of teaching, Carrie enjoys traveling and spending time outdoors with her friends and family. Last summer she traveled to Italy, France, and Holland with her husband and viewed many of the masterpieces of western art, but probably enjoyed most renting a car and exploring the hill towns of Tuscany. At home in San Clemente, Carrie enjoys road biking, open water swimming, and playing on the beach with her kids.

Professional Affiliations:
• Member, California State Bar
• Fellow, California Acceleration Project 2012-13
• Fellow, University of California, Irvine, Writing Project

Awards:
• Chapman University School of Law, National Association of Women Lawyers Outstanding Law Graduate Award

EDGAR HALEY
Mathematics Instructor

Education:
M.S. Mathematics, University of California, Riverside, Riverside, CA
B.A. Mathematics, University of California, San Diego, San Diego, CA

Experience:
Mr. Haley has been a part-time mathematics instructor at Crafton Hills College and Moreno Valley College since 2012, and at the University of California, Riverside from 2011-2012. While a graduate student at UCR (2008-2012), he was a teaching assistant in a wide range of courses. He has taught courses in developmental and transfer level mathematics, in a variety of formats, including online and lab courses. He uses technology extensively both in and out of the classroom. He is experienced with Blackboard, MathXL, MyMathLab, WebAssign, WebWork, and LaTeX. He has also enjoyed mentoring graduate student teaching assistants and coaching Ramona High students in Riverside for the American Mathematics Competition.

Personal:
Scott loves the outdoors; very little is more enjoyable to him than a secluded camping trip or a challenging hike. He considers one of his greatest adventures to be a five-day hike in the Canadian Rockies, and he is always on the lookout for great hikes in Southern California. Back in the city, he enjoys computer programming, cooking, poker, movies, and rooting for the Padres and Chargers.

Awards:
• Outstanding Teaching Award, University of California, Riverside, 2011
• Math Department Service Awards, University of California, Riverside, 2011 and 2012.
JASON HOLE
Mathematics
Full Time Temporary Substitute

Education:
Ph.D. Mathematics, University of California, Davis, Davis, CA
M.S. Mathematics, California State University, Los Angeles, Los Angeles, CA
B.S. Economics, Santa Clara University, Santa Clara, CA

Experience:
Dr. Jason Hole is a passionate instructor, perpetually exploring new avenues to empower his students in embracing math. Before coming to Saddleback College, Jason was fortunate to teach at Solano Community College, Cal. State LA, and U.C. Davis. At those colleges, he taught Arithmetic, College Algebra, and Calculus. He teaches the class by challenging students to internalize the material through critical thinking and deemphasizes memorization. Jason is also piloting a presentation component to the lab activities requirement in the Calculus section I. He incorporates technology in his instruction in the homework he assigns. He demonstrates and instructs using a variety of implementations of graphing software, from calculator emulators and stand-alone computer software to web-based solutions.

True to form, Jason's two favorite hobbies are of very practical use—riding a motorcycle and following the stock market. On the flip side, Jason's number one guilty pleasure is watching reality television. Summing up, Jason is a proud native Californian.

Professional Affiliations:
• Mathematical Association of America, American Mathematical Society

J. RYAN MCKEACHIE
Chemistry Instructor

Education:
Ph.D. Chemistry, University of California, Irvine, Irvine, CA
M.S. Chemistry, University of California, Irvine, Irvine, CA
B.S. Chemistry, Albion College, Albion, MI

Experience:
Dr. McKeachie started his teaching career as a part-time instructor at UCI in 2006. In 2009, he became a ‘freeway flyer,’ hired part-time at Cal State Fullerton, Saddleback and Golden West Colleges. It was Saddleback he always looked forward to teaching at the most, and he is very happy and excited to be hired full-time here!

Research Experience:
At Albion, Dr. McKeachie was part of an undergraduate research program in which he studied a photochemical method for producing a conductive polymer. This experience peaked his interest in chemistry and in the process of scientific research and motivated him to enroll in graduate school. At UCI, he studied the laser-assisted ionization of gaseous molecules, and was lucky enough to travel to the University of Kiel in Germany for four months to study ice surface reactions of chlorine dioxide. As a post-doc studying atmospheric methane in 2006, he was offered the chance to teach some general chemistry courses, and fortunately accepted the assignment. It was during these courses that Ryan found his true calling.

Personal:
Dr. McKeachie enjoys staying active and trying to stay healthy. Running has recently become a major hobby and stress reliever, as well as a place to think up new and exciting chemistry exam problems. Ryan completed three marathons last year, and hopes his knee stays healthy enough to complete more in the future. He also enjoys playing basketball, despite the fact it sometimes interferes with his running and knee-resting schedule. Other hobbies include jigsaw puzzles, looking forward to his next vacation with his wife Ashley, rooting for and subsequently being disappointed by the Detroit Lions, and lively discussions about Seinfeld.

BRETT MYHREN
English Composition Instructor

Education:
Ph.D. Literature, University of Southern California, Los Angeles, CA
M.A. Literature, University of Southern California, Los Angeles, CA
M.F.A. Creative Writing (Poetry), McNeese State University, Lake Charles, LA
M.A. Literature, McNeese State University, Lake Charles, LA
B.A. English, Loyola Marymount University, Los Angeles, CA

Experience:
Dr. Myhren has over eight years of teaching experience, at levels ranging from ESL to honors, in writing and literature. Since Fall semester 2011, he has taught English Composition as a part-time instructor at Saddleback College. He has also taught at the University of Southern California, at Loyola Marymount University, at McNeese State University, Lake Charles, Louisiana, and at the Universidad Autonoma de Baja California Sur, in La Paz, Mexico. His interest in innovative teaching has also led him to explore distance learning at three different institutions, including Saddleback College, where he will teach English 1A and 1B online. He has earned an “Online Educator Program” certificate from Saddleback College.

Professional Affiliations:
• Modern Language Association, American Studies Association, American Historical Association, Western Literature Association, Western Historical Association

SHAWN O’ROURKE
Speech Instructor/Forensics Coach

Education:
B.A., History, Carroll College, Helena, MT
M.A., History, California State University, Stanislaus, Stanislaus, CA

Experience:
After graduating with his Master’s Degree from CSU Stanislaus, Mr. O’Rourke became a volunteer coach at Solano Community College where he had previously attended and competed for their speech and debate team. His contribution to Solano’s successful competitive season was noticed by the coaching staff at Orange Coast College, who offered him a job as a coach and adjunct instructor in their Communication Studies Department. Over the past 5 years Shawn has been an active member of the department and school, in addition to coaching the OCC Speech Team during their numerous successful seasons. In 2010 he was the recipient of the Friend of the Student’s Award for Part Time Faculty, and in 2013 he was elected Chair of the Part Time Faculty Committee. He also worked as the Director of Debate and Limited Preparation for the nationally-recognized speech team at Fullerton Union High School, helping many high school students use the activity to receive scholarships at colleges across the country. He is currently completing a second Master’s Degree at CSU Los Angeles.

A lifelong fan of comic books, Shawn has published dozens of articles and reviews on the medium for the online magazine, Popmatters. He has presented papers on comic book history at multiple academic conferences, including Phi Alpha Theta, The Florida Conference of Historians and the Comics Art Conference. One of his essays, “A Brief Historiography of the Age of Marginalization: The Superhero in the American Mind,” has been included in the forthcoming anthology, Ages of Heroes: Eras of Men: Superheroes and the American Experience, due to be released this year by Cambridge Scholars Publishing.

Shawn’s wife, Sherana Polk, is a full time professor and Assistant Director of Forensics at Orange Coast Community College. The two teachers and debate coaches – now rivals! – live in Huntington Beach with their two young children, James (4 yrs.) and Riley (6 mo.). As a new hire, Shawn looks forward to contributing to Saddleback’s long tradition of student success and to the continued success of the speech and debate team.

ERIN O’SHEA
Art Instructor

Education:
M.F.A. Illustration (Art), California State University, Fullerton, Fullerton, CA
B.F.A. Drawing and Painting, California State University, Fullerton, Fullerton, CA

Experience:
Ms. O’Shea is proud to be a graduate of Saddleback College where her connection to the art community began two decades ago. While earning her Master’s in Fine Arts, she had the opportunity to teach Beginning Drawing for two years. Since graduating, she has been teaching 2D Design and Color Theory courses at Fullerton College and 2D Design and Watercolor courses at Orange County School of the Arts (OCSA). Erin enjoys teaching foundation courses as they provide vital elements and principles of visual arts and are a fundamental and integral part of a successful art program.

Erin’s illustration work and curriculum are a blend of traditional and digital technologies. In both areas, she incorporates the components and applications of design with an emphasis on visual problem solving. She is fluent in Photoshop, Illustrator, and In Design, as well as Drawing, Watercolor, and Printmaking. Erin integrates conventional and contemporary media to provide students with vital exposure to a broad range of opportunities, which are needed to develop a rich and current visual language.

Erin has three amazing children that are a constant source of inspiration/exhaustion/motivation/crippling self-doubt. Erin is an avid fiber artist who knits and crochets for herself and her collaborative yarn-bombing crew "Stitchocracy" She also loves to garden, ride her bike, do yoga and float in large bodies of, preferably foreign, water.

Professional Affiliations:
- Society of Children’s Books Writers and Illustrators

Awards:
- Society of Children’s Books Writers and Illustrators, Editor’s Day, Portfolio Showcase Award - 2012
- Society of Children’s Books Writers and Illustrators Mentorship Award - 2009
BRUNO PASSARELLI
Biology Instructor

Education:
M.S. Biology, California State University, Long Beach, CA
B.S. Marine Biology, California State University, Long Beach, CA

Experience:
Mr. Passarelli has been teaching at Saddleback College since 2011. His academic background includes an A.A. in General Science from Santa Monica College, a B.S. in Marine Biology from California State University Long Beach, and a M.S. in Biology, also from CSULB. Bruno’s graduate research focused on investigating the marine live bait trade in California as a potential vector (carrier) for the introduction of non-indigenous species. He is currently an Adjunct Research Scientist at Cabrillo Marine Aquarium with a research focus on marine parasitology.

At Saddleback College, Bruno has taught Introduction to Oceanography (Marine Science 20), Introduction to Biology (Biology 20), and Human Anatomy (Biology 11). This Fall he will be teaching Human Anatomy (Biology 11) and Marine Biology (Biology 19). He has also taught Marine Biology at Cypress College and laboratory sections of Invertebrate Zoology at California State University Long Beach. Bruno truly enjoys teaching and working with students.

Outside the classroom his interests include surfing, scuba diving, playing and watching soccer (he is a fanatical supporter of the Brazilian soccer club Corinthians), playing the guitar, and travelling. He loves to explore the world and go to new places. Recent trips include the Yucatan Peninsula in Mexico, Finland, South Africa, and Zimbabwe. Photo above was taken this summer at Victoria Falls, Zimbabwe.

Something unusual about Bruno? He is a native speaker of Portuguese and is fluent in Spanish. In his previous life, before becoming a biologist, he was a Music major and graduated with a Professional Guitar Certificate from the Musician’s Institute in Hollywood.

Professional Affiliations:
• Southern California Academy of Sciences (SCAS)
• Society for the Study of Evolution (SSE)

Awards:
• 2008-2010 California Sea Grant, Graduate Research Traineeship

Education:
M.S., Counseling, State University of New York at Oneonta, Oneonta, N.Y.
B.A., Psychology, State University of New York at Oneonta, Oneonta, N.Y.

Experience:
Mr. Lindboe has 14 years of student services experience at the community college level, and is a retired United States Marine Corps officer. He was employed as a residence hall director for 3 years at SUNY College of Agriculture and Technology at Cobleskill, New York. Subsequent to that employment, Don served in the United States Marine Corps, retiring as a Lieutenant Colonel after 24 years of service. Since retiring from the military, he has been employed for the past 11 years at Saddleback College, working in the Student Payment and Veterans Offices.
ANTHONY MACIEL
Director of Technology Services

Education:
M.B.A., California State University, Long Beach, Long Beach, CA
B.S., Electronics Engineering Technology, DeVry University, Pomona, CA

Experience:
Mr. Maciel previously served as the Senior Director of Information Technology at Golden West College and Coastline Community College where he deployed various technologies such as Virtual Desktop Infrastructure (VDI), S.L.O module into the LMS system, OCR Imaging system, IP-based cameras, Backup to Disk, Email archiving, Air-blown fiber, Infrastructure-as-a-Service (IaaS), and many others. Under his leadership, a new data center was built and all systems migrated with minimal disruption to campus operations. Anthony authored and was the chair of accreditation standard IIIc Technology Resources. He developed a 5-year technology master plan that included the input of all college constituencies. Prior to his 8-year tenure at Golden West and Coastline colleges, he was a senior network engineer at the L.A. County Office of Education, systems analyst at W.H. Smith, and data communications specialist at Duty Free Shoppers North America.

Anthony served as part-time faculty for six years at California State University Long Beach teaching Management Information Systems. He is currently earning a doctoral degree in higher education leadership from the University of Southern California. In the minimal spare time that he has, he enjoys playing golf, going to baseball games, and playing with Jake—his chocolate lab.
