New Honors Transfer Partner:

Trinity College, CT
Founded in 1823, Trinity College is an independent, non-sectarian (despite the name!) liberal arts college of approximately 2250 students in Hartford CT.

Why was the Honors Transfer Council of California -- those nice people who bring you the March conference -- interested in a partnership with Trinity? Here are just a few reasons:

- Trinity College meets the demonstrated financial need of all domestic students it admits and is one of the top schools for funding international students.

- Trinity College accepts transfers in biomedical, computer, electrical, and mechanical engineering.

- Trinity College has a strong and deep commitment to interdisciplinary education not only in the liberal arts but also in the sciences.

- Trinity College is always ranked among the top 50 liberal arts colleges in the country by everyone who ever ranks such things.

- Trinity College guarantees on-campus housing to all admitted students and provides, when possible, housing with other transfer students if desired.
Trinity College will, simultaneously with their notice of admission, provide HTCC honors program transfer students with a preliminary evaluation of transferable credit and progress toward meeting general education requirements.

Trinity College's new Vice President of Enrollment and Student Success, Dr. Angel B. Perez, has always had a strong commitment to welcoming transfer students to the world of liberal arts college education. In his previous position at Pitzer College, he was our contact for the Pitzer-HTCC partnership!

Stop by the office and meet the mascot, the Bantam. He's very cuddly.

Like the other 30 and 31 classes, 31BH may be taken in place of 10B to fulfill Honors Program humanities core requirements.

Looking for an Honors Class to take in Spring 2016?
We invite you to enroll in HUM 31 BH:
“Power, Resistance, & the Transformation of Empire”

This class will focus on European imperialism and colonialism in Asia and Africa during the first half of the 20th century, and resistance to colonialism by people in these regions. We will then consider the rise of nationalism, independence, and post-colonial immigration experiences. The course will present a multiplicity of voices, including those of the colonizers, the colonized, and the formerly colonized, as well as contemporary critical discussions of these topics.

Time: T/TH 10:30am-11:45am
Location: BGS 341
Dr. Margot Lovett, History & Gender Studies
Dr. Ray Zimmerman, English
(Note: HUM 30 courses, like HUM 10 courses, count toward the Honors core humanities requirement. This class is open to all students and fulfills IS/EFC Areas 3B and OW/GE Areas C2)

GOOD LUCK ON FINALS!
